Universal provides Corporate Update

VANCOUVER, BC – Universal Power Corp. TSX-V:UNX, FSE:3U2A (formerly Universal Exploration Corporation) (the “Company”) announced today exploration plans for the Company’s three recently acquired projects in Africa and Canada.

As previously reported, the Company has now acquired properties in Tanzania, Africa; Great Bear, NWT and Sibley Basin, Ont. These properties have been acquired for their Uranium, Gold, Silver and Base Metal potential. Preliminary work has begun on all three projects and in particular, a geologist contracted by the Company is currently completing a 43-101 technical report for the Tanzania properties. This report will be completed and reviewed by management prior to October 31, 2007. A full-scale work program will then be developed and work will begin on the Tanzania properties in November, 2007.

With respect to the Canadian projects, the Company has begun geophysical work on the Sibley project to identify drill targets for this winter and is currently negotiating with service providers for work to be performed on the Great Bear property.

Barry Swanson, Director and CEO of the Company said, “this is an exciting time for Universal Power Corp. We have greatly enhanced the strength and depth of our management team with the addition of Duane Parnham and we are now beginning the first phase of a comprehensive exploration program.” “The quality of the projects the Company has acquired is a testament to the strength and experience of the management team at Universal Power Corp.” said Swanson. “We believe that these three recently acquired projects offer tremendous potential for Uranium, Gold, Silver and Base Metal exploration and we will continue to pursue other acquisitions that make sense to strengthen our position as a nimble and growing exploration company.”

“The potential of the properties Universal Power Corp. has acquired is extremely high given the ongoing exploration and development by neighbouring companies and the large amounts of capital they have raised,” said Swanson.

The Company expects to issue a comprehensive update and work schedule program for all three projects next month.
